Country Women Hear Mrs. Lopes, Literary Hour

Among many splendid programs which the members of the Country Woman's club are priviledged to hear none are so welcome as the rare ones when Mrs. Janes Lopes comes to share with them her fund of literary lore.

Mrs. Lopes was a charter member of the club and is now one of the few on the honorary roll.

Some of our newer readers may not know that Mrs. Lopez is a sister of Mrs. E. C. Merrill, and daughter of Elijah Janes, for many years the faithful custodian of the Campbell library.

By the invitation of Mrs. E. J. Price, who was one of the committee for the program Monday, Mrs. Lopez was present and read a most interesting and illuminative paper on "California Writers."

She mentioned the many well known and widely read authors. Native or adopted sons and daughters of the Golden State. Her terse comments on this galaxy of writers were very clever. In the group were the Norrises, Jack London, Zane Grey, B. M. Bower, Bret Harte, Archibald Gunter, Richard Walton Tully and his wife, Eleanor Gates James Hopper, Henry Mead Bland, Edwin Markham, the Erwins, Will Rogers, Upton Sinclair, Mary Austin, Stewart Edward White, Harry Leon Wilson, Lincoln Steffens, Harold Bell Wright, Kate Douglas Wiggins and a few not so generally known.

She began her more detailed descriptions with two poets, Robinson Jeffers and Stephen Vincent Benet. The latter's "man size" poem, "John Brown's Body," which received a Pulitzer prize in 1928, she reviewed entertainingly and named other of his works.

Of Robinson Jeffers works she mentioned "Dear Judas" and the "Loving Shepherdess" and briefly outlined them.

Under historical writers she named Bob Ritchie, author of "Forty-Niners" and their "Adios," a story of Joaquin Murieta; Gross, "The Conquest of California" and Gertrude Atherton, whose new book, "Adventures," has a waiting list in all the libraries.

The next group included dramatists. Most important among these is Sydney Coe Howard, whose plays appear on Broadway: "The Silver Cord" deals with the problem of mother love. "Swords" is a tragedy of the Italian Rennaissance, and "They Knew What They Wanted" is a comedy.

Dan Totheroh is the author of "Good Vintage" and other plays.

The next in her hall of fame was Cornelia Strattoon Parker, a personal friend who visited in Campbell. Her first book was "An American Idyll," and a later volume was entitled "Working With the Working Woman," and her new book just out is "German Summer."

Bill Adams recently of Modesto but now living in Dutch Flat writes of the sea in sail-times.

California also has its mystery story writers: Edwin Markham's son has some good ones, and Earl Derr Biggers and his Chinese detective thrill his thousands.

San Quentin has produced two authors of recent date. Robert Joyce Lasker whose "Grimhaven"

Mr. Merrill's success in the national radio audition in 1930 and his subsequent triumphs in radio broadcasting, have won him the congratulations of his townspeople.

Campbell folk are proud of his achievements and they always welcome the opporotunity to attend his concerts. Sunday night's services will give pleasure to many.

Philip Farley, senior and student body president, is the highest-ranking honor student, with 5 A's and 25 points. Next on the list, with a score of 21 are Takeru Higuchi, George Ono, and Sal Teresi. Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Robinson spent a happy week-end entertaining their son, William Robinson, of the Berkeley police force.

Rev. Mark Rifenbark, San Jose, Speaker Old Settlers' Day

The Rev. Mark Rifenbark of the Episcopal church, San Jose, will be the afternoon's speaker at the Campbell Old Settler's day program on Feb. 22, it was announced today. Members of the Country Woman's club, under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Smith, have charge of the afternoon. They plan music, entertainment, and Rifenbark.

Plans are rapidly being consolidated for the entire festive day, H. M. Shadle, president of the chamber of commerce, declares.

The local Kiwanis club, under the chairmanship of Ira R. Abbott, has charge of the evening's program and will thrust community talent into the limelight. A grammar school faculty skit, directed by Miss Mary Fablinger, Miss Rowena Farman, and Mrs. Margaret Singleton, will be one of the high spots of the also promise to display their talent.

Miss Ora Jasper will present intermediate grade pupils in a one-act play, followed by dance numbers directed by Miss Ruth Adele Roberts.

The morning program, of which the chamber of commerce has charge, will be particularly entertaining. A quartet of young men, directed by Easten Kent and including Stephen Merrill in its make-up, will present a half hour of music.

Santa Clara Tastes Defeat at Hands of Campbell Hoopsters

Winning their fifth consecutive Valley league game, Campbell basketball teams defeated Santa Clara teams by large scores Friday night and thus maintained their position at the top of the league with a 100 per cent standing.

The unlimited team rolled up a 34 to 11 score, while the lightweights finished with a 15 to 8 score. Stars of the evening were Francis Pryor who made 16 points for his team, and Joe Condensa who tossed 3 field goals and one free throw to give the lightweights 7 points.

This Friday night Campbell will play the Los Gatos teams at the Campbell gymnasium, opening the second half of the league contests. Coach Ralph Noddin's starters for the unlimited team will be Vincent Buccelato, Byron Bollinger, forwards; Francis Pryor, center; Fred Hocking and Joe Ruscigno, guards. On the lightweight team the lineup will be Melvin DeSelle and Joe Condensa, forwards; Antone Labrovich, center; Robert Mattuch and Jerry Condensa, guards.

Stop Sign On Campbell Avenue At Winchester Road

A stop sign was erected Monday at the intersection of Campbell avenue with the Santa Clara-Los Gatos road, thus providing protection for children crossing the street between the high school and the grammar school.

Mystery Drama, "The Sky Train," Is H.S. Senior Play

On Friday night, March 3 aviators and detectives and their comrades and ladies will stalk the stage of the Campbell grammar school auditorium.

For on that night "The Sky Train," by Paul Cruger, will be produced by members of the senior class of Campbell union high school. Coaching the young actors is Miss Jean McKinley, well-known Santa Clara valley dramatic leader.

Leads in the play will be taken by Joe Ruscigno, Lenora Johnson, Dick Morton, Frances Reed, and 20 other members of the class of 1933.

Election Of Officers Held By Y.W.S.C.

Meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Wellington on Infirmary road members of the Young Women's Service club elected new officers of their organization Wednesday afternoon.

Elected were Mrs. Arthur Wellington, first vice-president; Mrs. Horace Person, second vice-president; Miss Winnie Grizzle, secretary; and Mrs. E. Russell Kennedy treasurer. The president of the club will be chosen at a meeting in the near future.

Assisting Mrs. Wellington as hostesses were Mrs. Guy Farley, Mrs. Freeman Howes, and Miss Muriel Carson.

A cozy, pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the members. Gathered around the cheery fireplace in the Wellington livingroom they discussed business, enjoyed a social hour, and admired the decorations of bright red berries. The rain beating outside made the color and warmth inside more appreciated.

Refreshments were served at small tables around the fireplace.

The next meeting of the club will be held Feb. 15 at the home of Mrs. Ira R. Abbott on Alice avenue. Mrs. Abbott will be assisted by Mrs. C. T. Tanner and Mrs. A. Christian Anderson.

LOCAL MASONS TO ENTERTAIN AT DECOTO SATURDAY

Music and magic will while away an evening for the residents of the Decoto Masonic home Saturday when the local Charity lodge puts on a program under the leadership of A. A. Thielke, assisted in the arrangements by T. A. Robinson.

The high school orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Thielke, will give a concert. Stephen Merrill, local tenor, will sing a solo.

A "vibra" harp solo will be given by Mr. A. C. Miller, accompanied on the piano by Leo Drims.

A. C. Miller and C. G. Miller will give a "Magic and Melody Act" which promises to afford much entertainment and will include sleight of hand tricks.

Mrs. Bertha Janes Lopez, Modesto, and her daughter, Mrs. Julia Stutchman, were entertained recently by Mrs. E. I. Price at her home on the Dry Creek road.

Journalist Will Speak at C. of C. Booster Dinner

Prof. Buford Brown, of the division of journalism in the school of social science at Stanford university, will deliver the chief address at the chamber of commerce "booster" dinner Friday night, Feb. 3 in the grammar school cafeteria.

Prof. Brown, who was once a publisher in Texas, will probably intersperse his constructive talk on community cooperation with many pungent samples of southern wit. Both as an exponent oof community helpfulness and as a witty speaker he is capable.

As a leader of young men in the Palo Alto Methodist church Prof. Brown has made many friends among college boys, who remain his staunch supporters long after graduation. He is a cousin of Judge F. B. Brown of Santa Clara county.

Plans for the evening's program which are being completed by A. A. Thielke, include music by a small orchestra of high school students, community singing led by Ed Ferguson, and sleight of hand tricks by A. C. Miller, San Jose.

The "booster" dinner has as its main object a development of community spirit in Campbell and a furthering of the town's interests. All persons interested in the community's future are invited. W. R. Coupland, ticket chairman, has distributed tickets among most of the town's lodges, churches, and civic organizations so that they may be easily obtainable.

A dinner with real Southern tastiness is being planned by the Congregational women's guild, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Cutting.

Road Petitioners Are Successful

Exactly 106 names have been affixed to the petition shaped by local chamber of commerce leaders requesting an extension of West Campbell avenue to Prospect road. These signatures include every resident on the Prospect road, every Campbell avenue businessman, and other residents of the Campbell, Saratoga, and San Tomas districts. The petition was circulated by Ralph Husted and Harry White, and will be presented by S. N. Hedegard to the county supervisors at their first meeting in February, after which the project will be given a public hearing.

Chamber of commerce officials found residents of outlying Campbell districts to be wholeheartedly in favor of the extension, the only opposition coming from the owners of the Quito ranch, which the road will cross.

The proposed artery will be less than a mile long and will connect Campbell directly with the western district and the San Francisco highways.

Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Young entertained Saturday night in honor of the birthdays of Mrs. Carl Schommer, San Jose, and Mrs. Carl Olsen, Campbell. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Schommer, Mr. and Mrs. Olsen, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Lea, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Young.

Current Comment

A San Jose morning paper, with its customary flare for accuracy, announces that our fellow citizen, Ralph Hyde, has been "Named Head of Campbell Law Firm." How the building and investment business jumps around these days!

James Rolph III, son of our illustrious governor, occupies a prominent spot in the day's news. His firm, which has written more state insurance than is seeming for any one firm to write, is under the scrutiny of an investigating committee. Committeemen seem to be a trifle skeptical of the deal, particularly since it has been revealed that certain senators and assemblymen have received commissions on the state business. Collusion charges are hovering about in the air, seeking a place to light. We trust that young Mr. Rolph has a good story—and the courage to stick to it.

James III is very fortunate in his efforts to pick plums from the state pie. In addition to the aforementioned juicy state business, he was appointed by his father, the Governor, to membership on the San Francisco board of pilot commissioners. His services thereon entitle him to approximately $450 a month, and he feels that he earns this money because he is "on call 24 hours a day," whatever that means.

The job cannot be very exacting, for he seems to have plenty of time to conduct, with two partners, a flourishing insurance business.

The writer would say, offhand, that there are too many plums in one family, what with the old man holding down the governor's chair, and all.

And by the way, that governor's chair must be a pretty hot seat right now. Papa Rolph is coming in for his share of criticism and investigation. We believe his political career has come to the jumping-off place, and a good thing, too.

Every time a major political stink is wafted towards our delicate olifactory organ, there comes to mind the old story of the fond father who set out to determine his son's career in advance.

Upon a table the proud parent placed a Bible, a ten-dollar note and a bottle of whiskey. Secreting himself in the room, he sat down to wait the coming of his son Thought he: "If he takes the Bible he will be a minister; if he takes the money he will be a thief, and if he takes the liquor he will be a drunkard."

Soon the lad entered the room, walked over to the table, and surveyed its contents. He pocketed the bill, drank the whiskey, put the Bible under his arm and walked out of the room. "My God," moaned the old man, "he's going to be a politician!"

Registration of Boy Scouts for 1933 Now in Order

Re-registration for 1933 of local Boy Scouts is now taking place, according to the Rev. Joseph H. Bennett, Scout leader. He urges all new boys who wish to join to appear for the regular meetings, Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Assisting Mr. Bennett in instructing the boys are Lloyd Brown and Alfred Beer.

Special first aid lessons are being given by Dr. C. H. Breuer, who has been interested in Scouting for many years and who has a doctor son who is a Willow Glen scoutmaster.

gives a picture of prison life, and his friend Ernest Booth pictures the criminal outside the prison walls in "Stealing Through Life."

Mrs. C. H. Whitman, the able chairman of the day, announced that Mrs. Herbert Shadle and Mrs. Freeman Howes would each sing a group of solos by California writers. The first were "The California Lullaby," Ed O'Day, composer Rudy Seiger; and "The Hand of You," Carrie Jacobs Bond. The second numbers were "The Rosary," Robert Cameron Rogers, music by Nevin and "Home On the Range," an old cowboy song of early days. Miss Katherine Wood was accompanist for both the singers.

Mrs. Whitman named some local authors: Mrs. Rozena Giles, sister of Mrs. R. W. Kennedy, Mrs. Mazarova George, who was present, and Richard Shelley, who has had plays given over the radio. She then spoke of her own great interest in journalism and of a book, "Journalism In California," which she had read and from which she had prepared a paper on "Early Journalism."

This was as interesting as the first subject and some notes from that will appear next week.

Notice was given of the exchange of dates of two future programs: Guest Day, scheduled for Feb. 20, will be held on April 3, and that program advanced to Feb. 20.

Reader Is Well Received At Local Methodist Church

Displaying a voice with real emotional power, Mrs. Rose Fuller, professional reader, appeared at the Methodist church Sunday night, giving a reading "The Wanderer."

Mrs. Fuller impersonated nine characters in the drama, which is a story of the Biblical prodigal son. Dressed in a colorful Hebrew costume, she presented an impressive picture.

Particularly good was Mrs. Fuller's interpretation of the part of the mother of the prodigal. With real poignancy she gave the tones of the sorrowing mother and made the audience feel the latent strength in her character. Mrs. Fuller's skill was noticeable when she showed the evident difference between the deepness of the aged father's calm voice and the deepness of the prodigal's excited youthful one.

The reading was accompanied by musical numbers, sung between the scenes. After the first scene the choir, composed of Mrs. Charlotte Davis, Mrs. John Blaine, Mrs. Fred Long, Mrs. Rose Hanger, D. H. Cramer, and Fred Nichols sang "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" After the second scene Mr. Cramer sang a solo, "The Ninety and Nine." Miss Veva Nichols, church organist, played a soft organ conclusion to the drama.

Are You Eligible To Vote? Check Registration Now

The law which causes voters to lose their registration if they do not vote at the last election will affect many voters who may wish to vote at the school election on the last Friday in March, according to Joseph E. Hancock, county superintendent of schools.

The county clerk will not be able to purge the register in time to send notices to those voters who did not vote at the last general election so that they may register forty days prior to the school election. In order that these voters may exercise their right of franchise at the next general school election it will be necessary for them to go to the office of the county clerk, make out the necessary certificate, and re-register.
